

No 2

Dear Sir

I heard yesterday something you may like to be told, although you may not like to hear it. You mentioned to me a notion you had of editing the MS.
Diary of a Savinier quoted in the Hist of the Stage, as a summer amusement. I find that Mr Hunter of Bath or Mr Keywood of Manchester, or both in conjunction have the same design, but when they mean to execute it I know not - I learn also that the name of the writer of the Diary was Mannig-ham, a fact which W. Hunter has with some Diligence & research ascertained.

Without any affectation, you will oblige me greatly if you will not ven-ple to mention to me any mistakes (of which there are no doubt many) in my book with a view to my own information - not that I expect it will <sup>or can</sup> ever arrive at a 2<sup>d</sup>. edition.

There are very few men (if any) whose opinion on such subjects I value more than yours, & this is said by

Your sincere & obliged

J. P. Collier

23 Hunter Street

Barnswell Sq.

July 6th 1831 very much of a new kind of paper - all that I collected with me amounted to 20 sheets.

There are very many very small specimens of different kinds of plants, which I have from various sources of collection.

2. Ant. test.
Ant. test.
Ant. test.
Ant. test.
Ant. test.